

IN PARTNERSHIP WITH

PRESENT

Main Street
LIVE

with Jazz Trio ~
Asbell, Schmeeckle & Hill

Saturdays, September 12th and 19th
5 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Paul Asbell's bio speaks for itself. For decades he's been one of the mainstays of the national Americana and Vermont Jazz scenes, playing at numerous local venues including the Stowe Jazz Festival in support of his latest jazz offering, "Burmese Panther". Paul currently teaches guitar at the University of Vermont and Middlebury College. Find out more at www.paulasbell.com

Peter Schmeeckle grew up in Barre, Seattle, and Los Angeles. He served as a drummer in the Marines and has been active in the jazz scenes in Honolulu, LA, Seattle, and San Diego. For the past five years he has worked as a freelance percussionist, and teaches multiple instruments out of the Stowe Music Center.

Jeremy Hill is one of Vermont's top double bassists. Hailing from Waterbury and teaching in Waitsfield, he is one of the area's finest jazz musicians and has been a part of the Stowe Jazz Festivals' after-hours house band at Doc Ponds with the Sklarkestra every year of the festival.

Pick up your take-out at one of Stowe's wonderful restaurants by ordering here:
<https://gostowe.com/returntostowe-restaurants/>

Then bring your take-out downtown and enjoy a socially distanced picnic style dinner at one of the following Village greens: Stowe Public House, Stowe Sweets, or the Butler House all while taking in some top-notch Vermont jazz. You can also stroll and shop to many downtown Stowe businesses.

Sponsored By

